

Why is Cokesbury VBS music not reproducible?

We appreciate the fact that many churches want a flexible curriculum that can be customized to fit a variety of needs and situations. Music is one area where we have restrictions.

In order to offer you the very best music we contract with outside writers and pay to have the rights to use their music for our VBS programs. Cokesbury does not own the music and therefore does not have the right to grant permission for duplication.

What we have done is offer a Student Take Home CD-ROM with all ten VBS songs plus 5 computer games at the very affordable price of $3.75 per CD.

Why isn't there a quantity discount on Student Take Home CD-ROM?

Cokesbury serves a number of churches. We have chosen to find one low price that would serve all churches. We do not want a small membership church at a disadvantage and having to pay a higher price.
